DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 8-14, 16, 19, 26-39, 41-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Holub (6,157,735).

Claim 8:

“A method for determining and calibrating color display characteristics of a remote user’s display so as to able to provide color corrected images to the user over a network” is disclosed, see Fig. 3A, col. 14 lines 22-40;

“remotely calibrating the remote user’s display by performing substeps of: receiving a request at server for characterizing the remote user’s display” is disclosed, see col. 14 lines 36-37;

“under control of said server, transferring images selected to assist with remote calibration of the remote user’s display from said server to the remote user’s display upon initiation of color display characterization, said server functioning to permit multiple image providers to provide color corrected images to the user for determining and calibrating color display characteristics of different displays” is disclosed, see Fig. 3A, col. 13 lines 32-34, 58-60, col. 14 lines 22-40, col. 9 lines 13-17;

“processing information related to the user’s interactions with the images to determine color display characteristics of the remote user’s display” is disclosed, see col. 14 lines 27-32, 41-51, col. 13 lines 34-38;

“and automatically notifying the user when a particular image being displayed is color corrected in accordance with said calibration” is disclosed, see col. 41 lines 35-39, lines 62-63.

Claim 9: “transferring the images to the remote user’s display before transferring information processing code to the remote user” is disclosed, see col. 13 lines 32-37, col. 14 lines 27-32.

Claim 10: “processing the information at a server to determine color display characteristics of the remote user’s display” is disclosed, see col. 14 lines 27-32, 41-51, col. 13 lines 34-38, to mention a few places where processing information to determine color display characteristics occurred as claimed.

Claim 11: “transferring the images to the remote user’s display from a server” is disclosed, see col. 13 lines 32-37, col. 14 lines 27-32.

Claim 12: “processing the information at the server to determine color display characteristics of the remote user’s display” is disclosed, see col. 14 lines 27-32, 41-51, col. 13 lines 34-38, to mention a few places where processing information to determine color display characteristics occurred as claimed.

Claim 13: "the remote user is a client computer connected to a network" is disclosed, see col. 12 lines 8-14.

Claim 14: "wherein the user's display is a monitor, a projector, a printer, or a plotter" is disclosed, see col. 12 lines 29-30, 59-60.

Claim 16: "selecting the image based on parameters including desired level of thoroughness of characterization, known hardware characteristics of the user, known software characteristics of the user, known characteristics of the network connection to the user, or characteristics of the images transferred to the user" is disclosed, see col. 43 lines 10-36, col. 44 lines 18-42, col. 13 lines 22-34.

Claim 19: "transferring to the server information related to image selection by the user in response to the images transferred by the server to the user's display" is disclosed, see col. 13 lines 22-34.

Claims 26-28 are disclosed, see col. 14 lines 22-51.

Claims 29-31 are disclosed, see Figs. 21E, 21F, col. 43 lines 19-36, col. 44 lines 15-21.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 15, 17-18, 20-25, 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Holub (6,157,735) in view of Bruck et al (6,008,836).

Claim 15:

The claimed limitation "wherein the images comprise test images or test patterns" is not explicitly disclosed by Holub. However, images that comprise test images or test patterns are notoriously well-known in the art as evidence see Bruck at the ABSTRACT lines 7-14, col. 9 lines 54-60. An artisan would be motivated to modify Holub's disclosure, in view of this well-known feature, to arrive at the claimed invention; because this modification would provide feedback for color correction or adjustment. Therefore, the claimed invention would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Claim 17 is rejected in view of the above obvious modification.

Claim 18: "selecting the order in which the test images or test patterns are transferred to the user's display based on the parameters" is not explicitly disclosed by Holub.

However, Holub's disclosure is based on data structure, file structure for transferring data or file (see col. 13 lines 56-60); and Official Notice is taken that ordering or selecting order is a well known procedure in data structure in the art. An artisan would be motivated to modify Holub's disclosure to include this well-known feature in Holub's disclosure to arrive at the claimed invention; because this modification would provide organization in the selection and transferring process. Therefore, the claimed invention would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Claim 20 is rejected in view of the above obvious modification.

Claim 21, 22 are rejected, see Bruck at col. 10 lines 29-36, ABSTRACT lines 7-14.

Claim 23: "executable code running on a client computer connected to the server through a network to receive the images from the server and display the images on the user's display" is disclosed, see col. 13 lines 22-34, col. 14 lines 22-40.

Claim 24 is rejected in view of the above obvious modification.

Claim 25: the claimed limitation "selecting the order in which the images are transferred to the user's display" is not explicitly disclosed by Holub. However, Holub's disclosure is based on data structure, file structure for transferring data or file (see col. 13 lines 56-60); and Official Notice is taken that ordering or selecting order is a well known procedure in data structure in the art. An artisan would be motivated to modify Holub's disclosure to include this well-known feature in Holub's disclosure to arrive at the claimed invention; because this modification would provide organization in the selection and transferring process. Therefore, the claimed invention would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Claim 40 is rejected for the same reasons as claim 25.

Claim Objections

5. Claim 19 is objected to because of the following informalities: in the Clean-copy Version of Claims, claim 19 depends on itself. Appropriate correction is required.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments have been considered but are moot in view of reinterpretation of the references necessitated by the amendment.
